CAPITAL CITY PARKS. GO EXPLORE.

HARTFORD

The Capital City Parks system is composed of approximately 2,000 acres of park space, including 100+ miles of trails, 100+ miles of water, and 100+ miles of green space. The parks provide unique recreational opportunities and are an important part of our city's history, culture, and identity. They are also a vital part of our environment, providing clean air, water, and a place for us to connect with nature.

But, within the same parks and spaces, there is also a need for modern amenities, such as playgrounds, sports fields, and picnic areas. We are committed to ensuring that our parks are not only beautiful and historic, but also functional and enjoyable for everyone.

RENEW THE LEGACY
Hartford owes its ample park acreage and promise for the future to a history of valuing urban open space. This legacy requires maintenance. Future changes will promote the Capital City Parks system's rich history, ensuring future improvements renew historic elements and complete connections as originally envisioned.

CONNECT THE SYSTEM
A connected "ring of parks" is a central part of Hartford's historic vision. It is also critical to contemporary walkability and equitable access. A phased connectivity plan can be implemented over time which will enhance circulation in parks, create connections from parks to neighborhoods, and improve ecological links.

GO PLAY

HEART YOUR PARKS
Improving Hartford's parks requires a team effort. Many partners and stewards, beyond the city, exist today and are needed to sustain the system amid constrained resources. Existing patterns in parks must also change so that everyone helps create, support, and care for a clean, healthy parks system.

SAY HELLO
Many of the special moments in Hartford's parks remain hidden to most park visitors. There is a need to share the positive stories, rich history, and memorable places. Using the map on the back, take the time to visit the parks, explore the 2,000 acres of open space and share your experiences.

Carte Figurative des pertes successives en hommes de l'Armée Française dans la campagne de Russie 1812-1813.

Dressée par M. Minard, Inspecteur Général des Ponts et Chaussées en retraite. Paris, le 20 Novembre 1869.

Les nombres d'hommes présents sont représentés par les largeurs des zones colorées à raison d'un millimètre pour dix mille hommes; ils sont de plus écrits en travers des zones. Le rouge désigne les hommes qui entrent en Russie, le noir ceux qui en sortent. — Les renseignements qui ont servi à dresser la carte ont été puisés dans les ouvrages de M.M. Chiers, de Ségur, de Fezensac, de Chambray et le journal inédit de Jacob, pharmacien de l'Armée depuis le 28 Octobre.

Pour mieux faire juger à l'œil la diminution de l'armée, j'ai supposé que les corps du Prince Jérôme et du Maréchal Davout qui avaient été détachés sur Minsk et Mohilow et ont rejoint vers Orscha et Witebsk, avaient toujours marché avec l'armée.

CULTURE & COMMERCE

MONUMENTAL MOMENTS. The ceremonial gateway of Huntington Avenue, Copley Plaza was Boston's original cultural hub. Its grand scale and iconic institutions set the tone for the rest of the Avenues.

MAKE WAY FOR DUCKS. Visitors of all ages and backgrounds line up for Boston's clamorous duck boats, the city's unofficial mascot. They are a perfect transition between the bustle of contemporary commerce and the markers of Boston's past.

CENTER OF THE UNIVERSE. The Christian Science Plaza is a modernist tour de force – one of the world's most significant compositions of concrete architecture. Inside the massive complex is the Mapparium, where visitors behold the world from the inside of a stained-glass globe.

ROLL OVER, BEETHOVEN. The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Berklee College of Music, and the Boston Conservatory at Berklee collectively present 2,450 musical, theatrical, and arts performances each year.

DIG THE GROOVE. A robust music industry is anchored by institutions located along the Avenues. More than 20 recording studios, several instrument stores, and countless live performances – in clubs and in the streets – give the Avenues a rhythm and a groove.

Where Boston wakes up

The geography of opening hours in Boston is uneven - before 8:00a only the Financial District and nearby areas are open for business. As you might expect, by noon most of the city is active. Places like Back Bay and the Mass Ave corridor come alive at this time. However, there are still quite a few pockets that don't open until much later in the day.

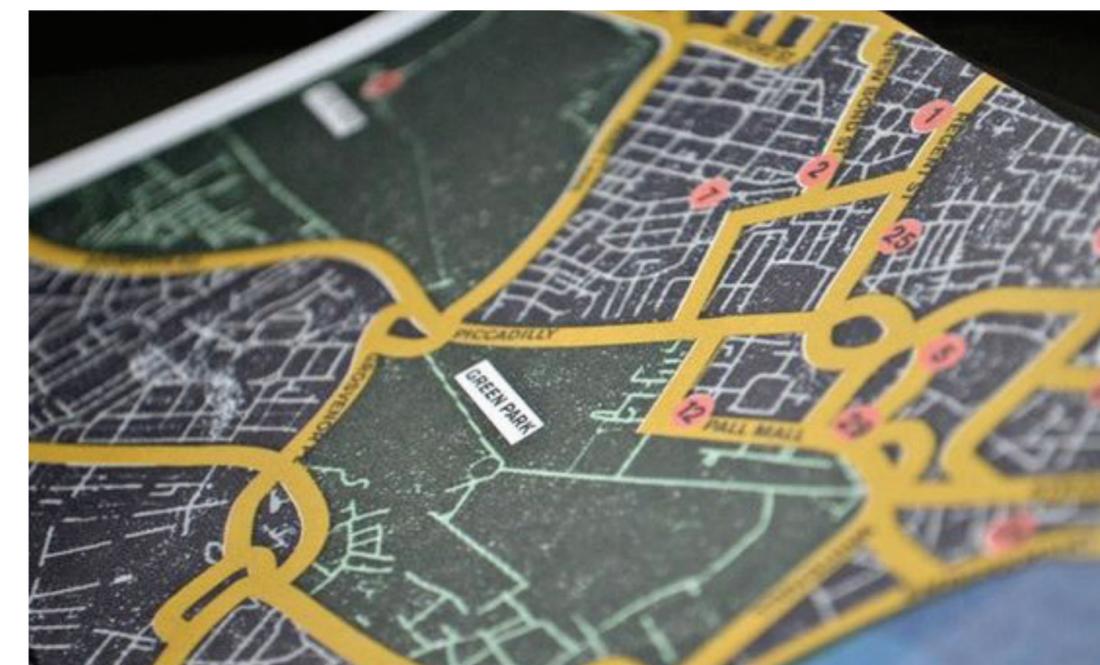

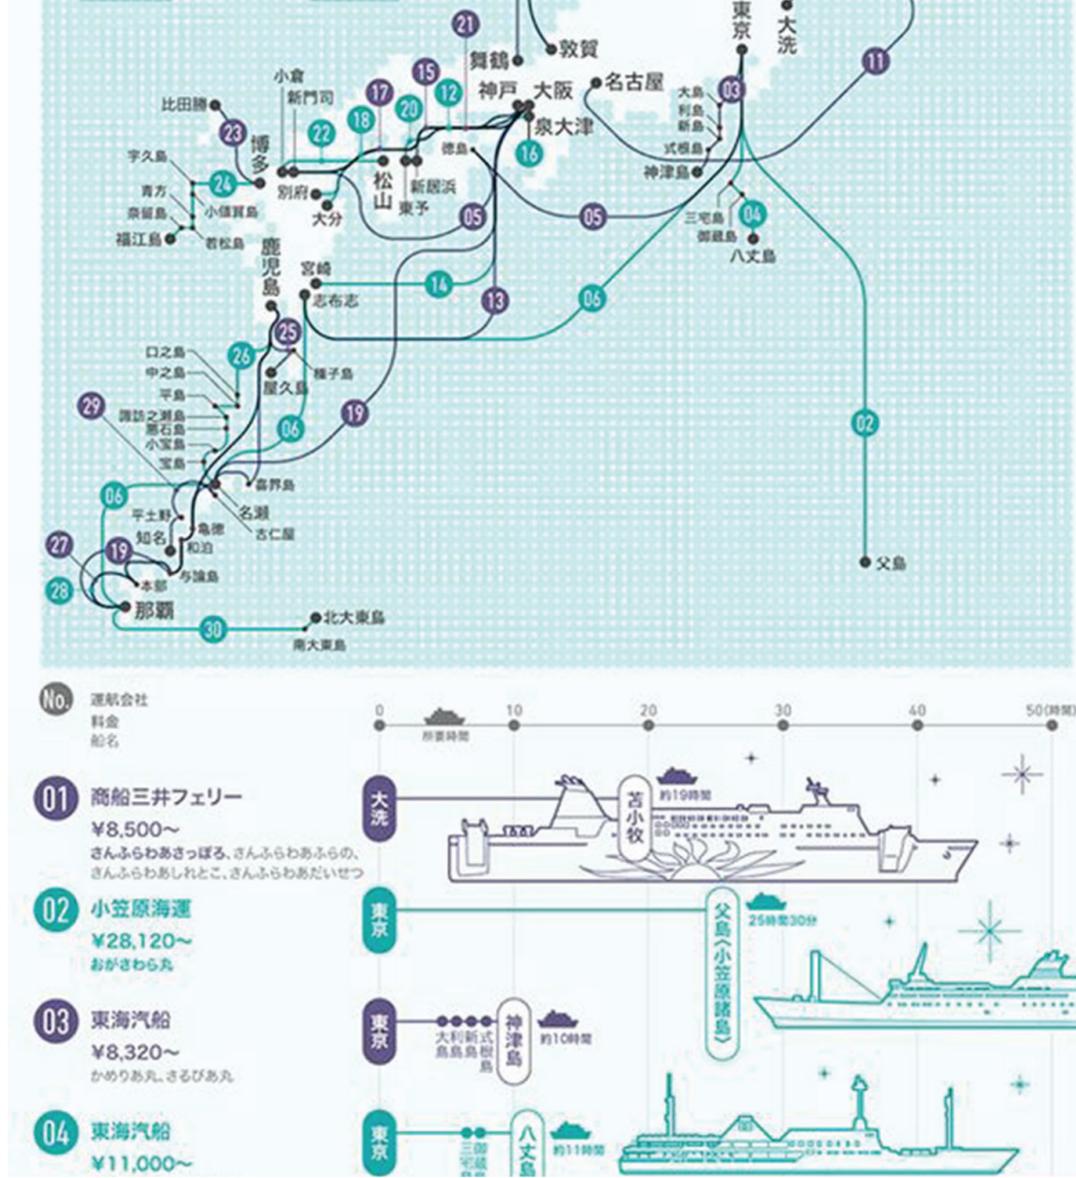

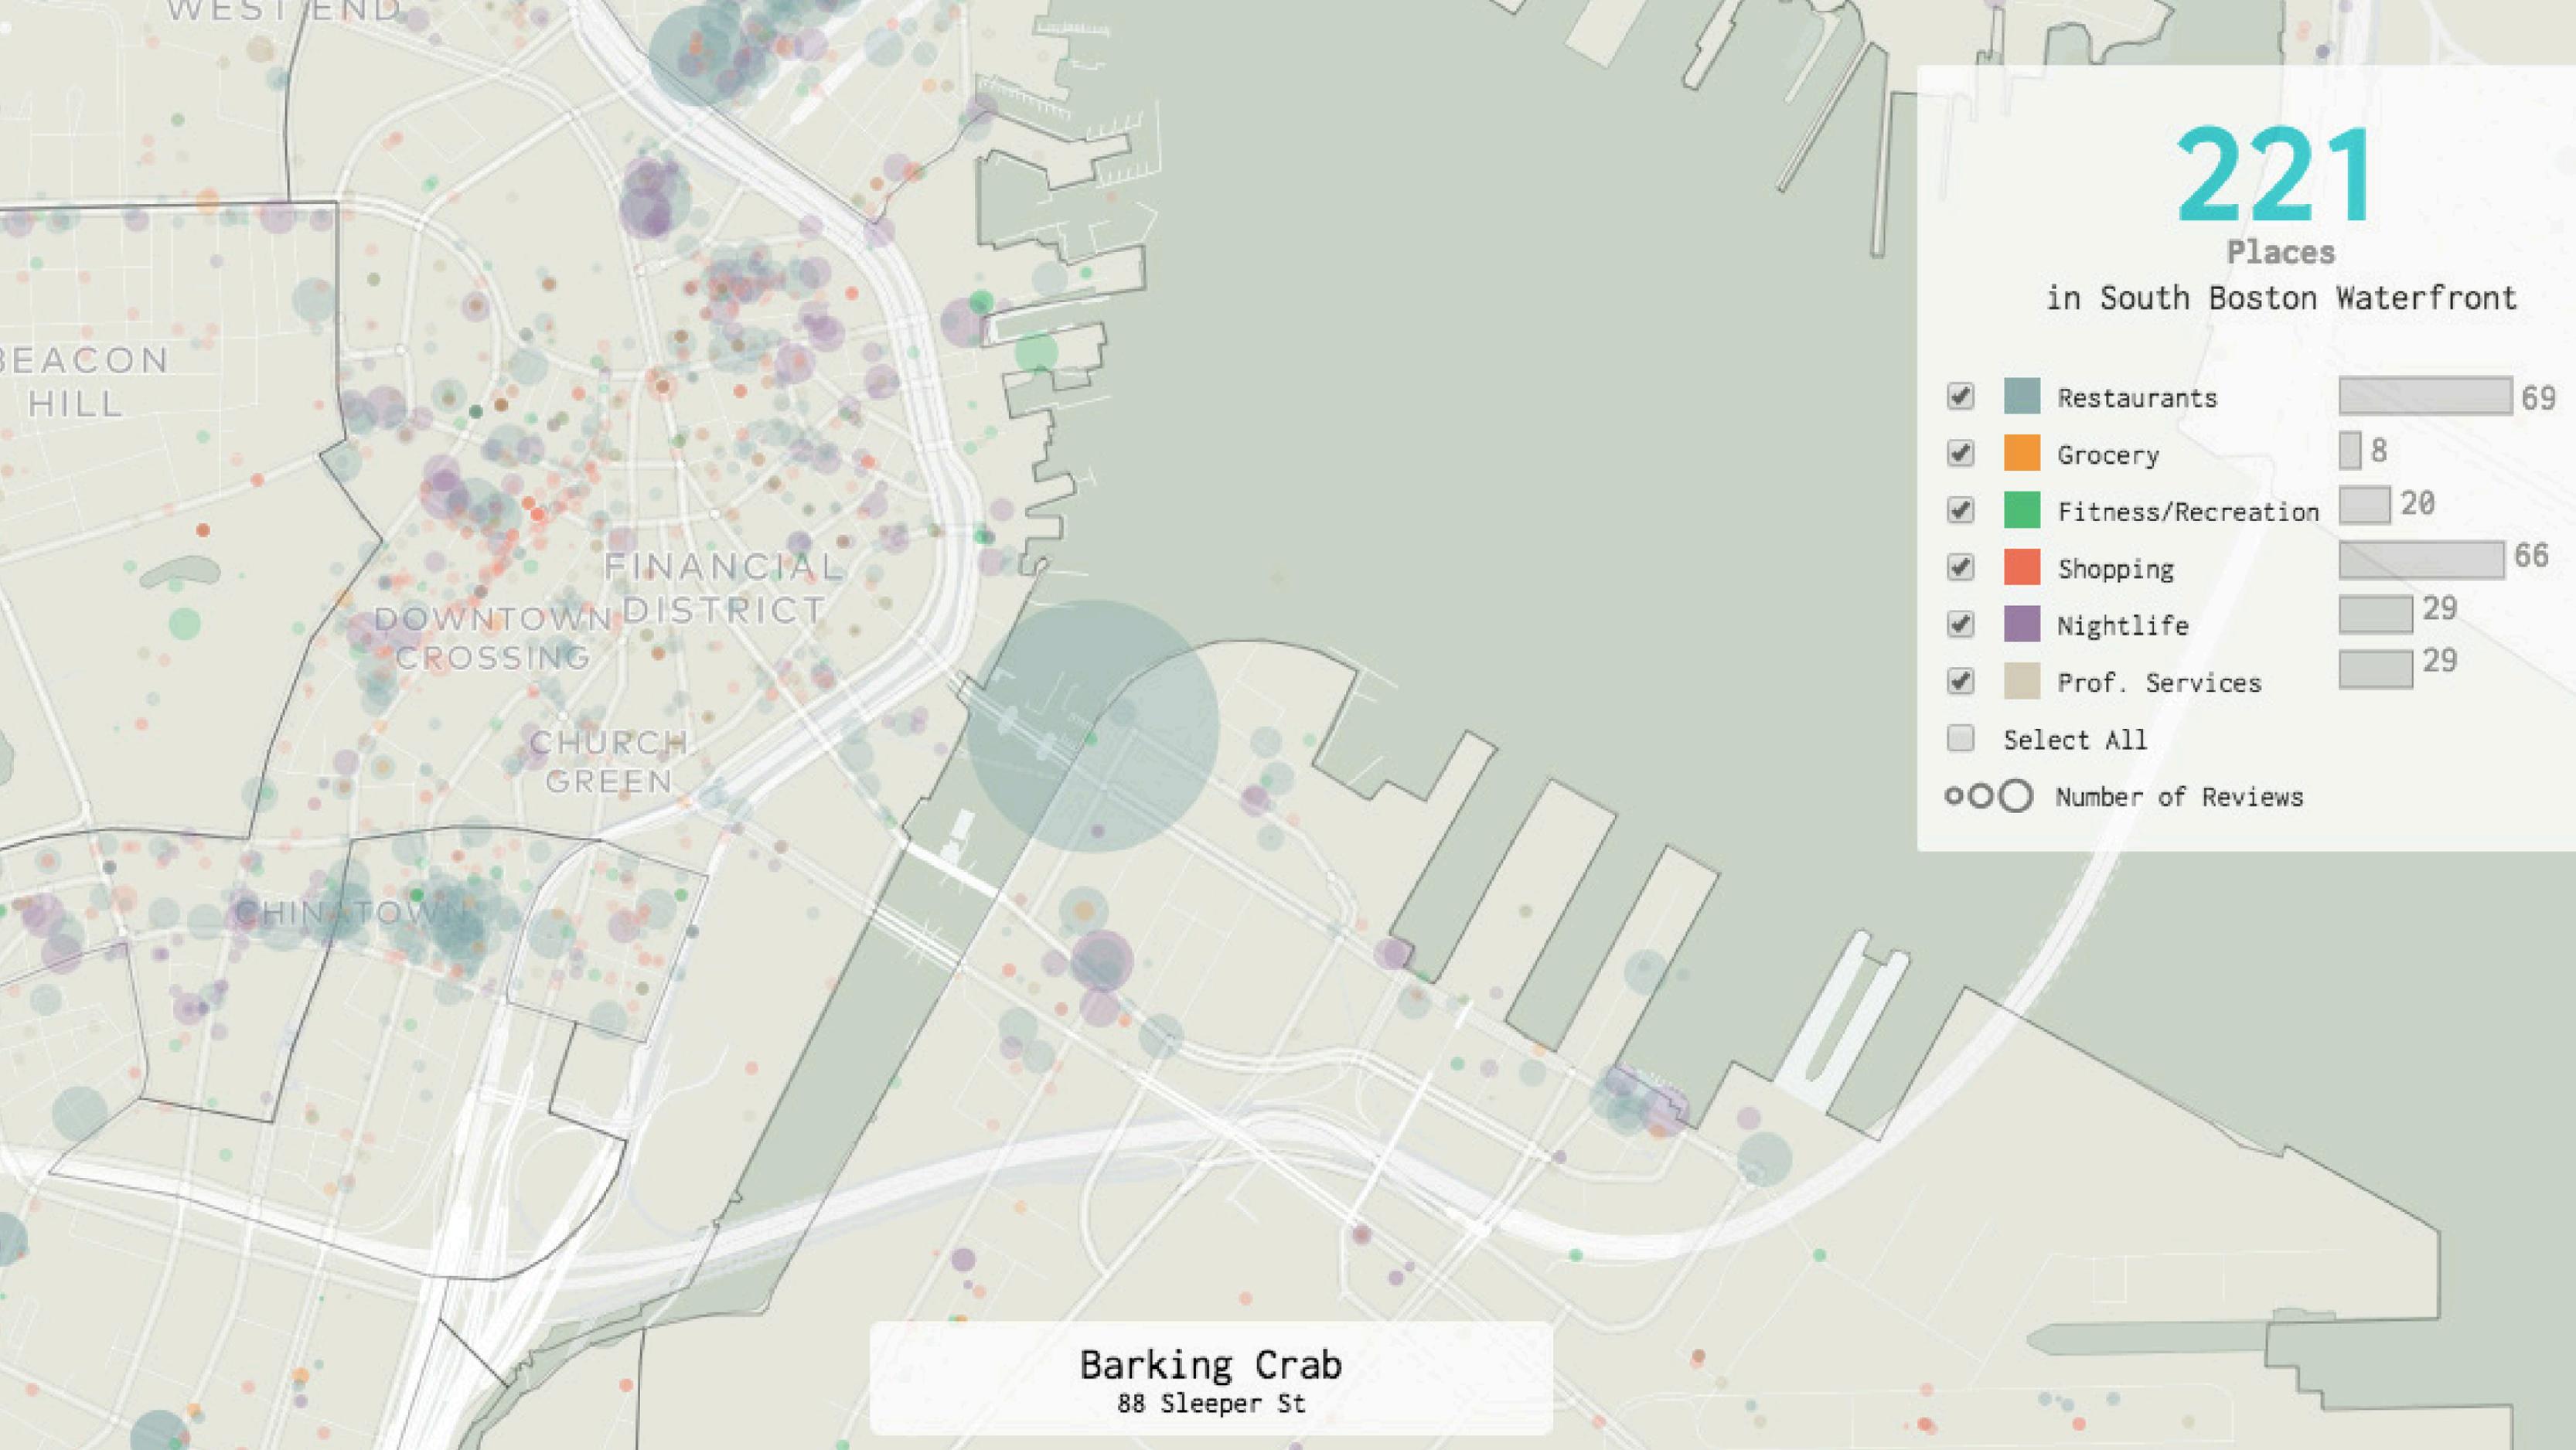

CONCEPT A

UNCOVERING THE FUTURE

South Boston Waterfront is the perfect palimpsest of the city. Its many layers reveal the complexities and contradictions of American history – and the contours of its future. The tower crane is the district's new mascot, a sight of Boston reinventing itself. But in the shadows of the towers, are traces of an older city: the wooden pilings that have marked centuries of tides, the muscular trunnion bridges that once swung open for merchant ships, the tough-nosed lobster boats plying new England's signature lobster trade, the waters where a young America first declared its freedom.

Dive in.

Let these itineraries be your guide to the iconic destinations — and the hidden gems — of the South Boston Waterfront.

STOP AND SMELL THE SALT

At ocean's edge, sensations are sharper, stars brighter, air headier, tide higher, life itself more exhilarating.

Adventurous diners are welcome to cast for themselves; a landing at Pier 4 features a bait vending machine and a fish cleaning station.

The terrace at the Institute of Contemporary Art may be the city's most sophisticated people-watching porch.

At night, Fan Pier floats between two worlds: iconic views of Boston city lights on one side, stars strung over the ocean on the other.

A neighborhood mainstay, the casual and clamorous Barking Crab welcomes weary mariners at its floating dock in the Fort Point Channel.

Through the lobby of the Independence Wharf Building, past the security guard, up an elevator, through a hallway, out the door, to a roof deck: a million-dollar view at no charge.

LIFE IMITATES ART

.2 MILES OR A 5-MINUTE WALK

PYR 2014
Is an ancient pyramid submerged in the Fort Point Channel? In fact, PYR 2014 is a public art project by Don Eyles that recalls Boston's history in the juxtaposition between the solid granite cobblestones and the Channel's waters.

STEEPED IN HISTORY
The ornate seal on facades of Classical Revival-style buildings is the mark of the Boston Wharf Company, which developed this area at the turn of last century. Today, the former industrial lofts are home to families, artist studios, and tech companies.

ON A GRAND SCALE
The Boston Convention & Exhibition Center, designed by Rafael Viñoly Architects, is large enough to hold over eight football fields.

FUTURE IN THE MAKING
The tower crane is South Boston Waterfront's unofficial mascot. New developments along the harbor will bring new residents, shops, dining, and job opportunities to the new Seaport Square.

CHANGING TIDES
Over the course of a single day, tides can rise and fall more than ten feet in the Boston Harbor.

CATCH OF THE DAY
For more than a hundred years, tough-nosed lobster boats have tied up at Fish Pier to unload New England's signature delicacy.

WHERE IDEAS THRIVE
Just outside the Innovation and Design Building, eight brightly-painted kiosks, upcycled from shipping containers, feature restaurants, plant nurseries, and plenty of other curiosities.

AN ACTIVE WATERFRONT
The Marine Industrial Park brims with activity with over XXXX ships loading and unloading their goods on a daily basis.

FEEL THE VIBRATION
At the end of the long, industrial Drydock Avenue, a hidden pocket park affords spectacular views of planes landing and taking off across the channel, and big ships gliding by so close their engines reverberate in the wooden planks.
